We are thankful for the churches that have contributed to the maintenance of the Convention Building. Because of that financial support we have been able to do most of the upgrades that were needed. We have now installed new ceiling tile and LED lights in all portions of the building that the Parent Body was responsible for. This week to make sure the new ceiling tile does not become damage from water damage from the roof, we had a roofing company to come and do an inspection and make some minor repairs. However, it became obvious that roof will need a major resurfacing in the not to distant future. The cost of the resurfacing is projected to be in the vicinity of $45,000.

As of today, ten churches have contributed to the support of the Convention Building for a total of $3,000.00.

Utility costs and insurance premium have increased and it takes about $13,000 annually to maintain the building and needless to say we need each church's financial support,
